

TWEHA PRODUCTS – QUALITY ENSURED THROUGH EXCLUSIVE DISTRIBUTION

Our products are not available in general stores or building supply shops due to our exclusive partnerships with recognized and trained distributors. By limiting the availability of our products to carefully selected partners, we can guarantee that end-users receive expert advice, reliable support, and authentic products, maximizing their investment and satisfaction.

We have earned our reputation as a trusted brand in the construction industry by consistently delivering innovative, sustainable, and user-friendly products. Our commitment to excellence extends far beyond production and encompasses the entire customer experience, from purchase to application. With this strategic distribution approach, we aim to enhance the overall value our customers receive and maintain the excellent reputation Tweha has built over the years.

The specific quality of our adhesives is important, but our distribution network is also an integral part of the TWEHA brand. The TWEHA brand consists of various elements, including, of course, the high-quality adhesive products, but also the expertise and experience of the TWEHA team, which includes the extensive network of specialized distributors.

The local expertise, market knowledge, customer networks, and collaboration among the specialized distributors strengthen the collective position of TWEHA in the market and enable us to offer products and applications that meet the specific needs of each market while ensuring global consistency and quality.

The distribution network is a focal point in the vision of TWEHA, not only because it ensures the distribution and availability of TWEHA products in different countries and regions, but also because it is a network consisting of hundreds of specialists who are familiar with the façade industry and understand the technical aspects of adhesive bonding. They serve as local points of contact for customers, providing technical advice and support, and ensuring that TWEHA products are applied correctly and meet the needs of the façade industry.

Combined, the high-quality adhesive products, the expertise of the TWEHA team, and the extensive network of specialized distributors form the TWEHA brand.

Through the implementation of this exclusive distribution strategy, Tweha remains committed to leading in innovation and customer satisfaction. We are confident that this change will further strengthen our relationships with partners and customers.

For more information about Tweha products or to become an authorized distributor, please contact our customer service team via info@tweha.com.